History made across New York

History was made in New York City yesterday: 484 couples wed across the five boroughs as same-sex nuptials officially became legal for the first time in the state.

By 9 a.m., over 250 people were lined up outside the Manhattan City Clerk's Office. Across the East River, the first gay couple to be married at Brooklyn

"It's a very affirming day. We're seen as equals. We're hoping the federal government will come on board."

Borough Hall was Stacey Minondo and Barbara Tremblay, downtown Brooklyn residents and partners of eight years.

The two women became emotional as they recited their vows and Judge Bernard Graham told Tremblay to take her time as she stopped to wipe away tears.

The sense of jubilation was not limited to same-sex couples. Cobble Hill resident Steve Landis brought his twin three-year-old girls, Emily and Sophie, to Brooklyn Borough Hall to volunteer as flower girls for any couple who wanted them.

Flatbush couple Rachel, 34, and Lailah Pepe, 30, already had their ceremony on May 28, but made it legal yesterday at Brooklyn Borough Hall.

"We thought we were going to have to go to Connecticut," said Lailah. "When the judge was doing the ceremony, I was tearing up. You don't know what it means until you have that legal recognition, to say you're equal."

► Dedicated couple finally makes it to the altar in a very emotional ceremony ► 'It's happening to us'

Out of the all marriages performed in the city yesterday, the wedding of Connie Kopelov, 84, and Phyllis Siegel, 76, may stand out as the most memorable.

The two elderly women — who have been together for 23 years — were one of the first three gay couples in New York City to wed. Their ceremony was performed in the East Chapel of City Hall at 8:45 a.m.

Kopelov arrived in a wheelchair and stood with the assistance of a walker.

Siegel wrapped her hand in her partner's, both grasping the walker.

When City Clerk Michael McSweeney, who presided over the wedding, announced the pair married, a cheer went up in the chapel. City Council Speaker Christine Quinn, who is a lesbian, along with her partner, Kim Catulo, and state Sen. Tom Duane, also gay, all attended and were visibly crying. Duane wiped away his tears with a white cloth.

In an interview right after the ceremony, Siegel expressed the enormity of her emotion.

"I am breathless," she said. "I almost couldn't breathe. I'm happy. It's what I wanted to do. It's mind-boggling. The fact that it's happening to us — that we are finally legal and can do this like everyone else." METRO/POOL

Anonymous unmasked

"These groups have a history of victimizing innocent people, so we turn it around and do it to them." VITALE

► Members of Anonymous talk to Metro ► Meet the hacktivist group's non-hackers ► Stage protests instead They're known as Anonymous, but they're certainly not unanimous.

The decentralized Web network — considered either transparency watchdogs or tech terrorists, depending on your perspective — has made headlines recently over members' alleged hacks of major corporations.

Last week, an FBI raid resulted in the arrests of 14 people connected to the "hacktivist" movement, including residents of Brooklyn and Long Island. Anonymous and its loosely affiliated groups have taken credit for infiltrating corporate websites like Monsanto and Sony, and the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

But not all Anonymous members believe in hack-

Protest power

In 2009, NYCAnon slathered up a semi-naked man in Vaseline, covered him in pubic hair and had him charge into Church of Scientology headquarters in Times Square. In 2010, the group again protested outside the church — but finely dressed and shouting slogans in old English.

ing, members of NYCAnon, a New York City chapter, told Metro.

"Hacking doesn't accomplish anything," said Mike Vitale, 26, a network administrator from Flushing. "It doesn't send a message; it just gets more people arrested in the name of Anonymous."

Rather than targeting NATO or MasterCard like some Anonymous members, NYCAnon attempts to call attention to organizations that they say are abusive. Using Anonymous' Internet forums, they organized "raids" — or protests — against the Church of Scientology, Sept. 11 conspiracy theorists and the Westboro Baptist Church. They depend on the Internet to organize their protests, but they don't hack, they say.

"The hackers won't agree with our view of Anonymous and we don't agree with theirs," said "Ven," 21, a student from Brooklyn.

Abdominal fat reducer provided to Hollywood stars by famous plastic surgeon now available to public

An advanced line of products produced by famous Beverly Hills plastic surgeon Dr. Frank Ryan is now available to the public.

Previously these products had only been available to Dr. Ryan's clients which included Oscar winning Hollywood movie stars and celebrities across the nation. These products substantially improve personal appearance without plastic surgery.

Dr. Ryan, perhaps the most famous Hollywood plastic surgeon in recent times, was extensively featured on television and in magazines across the nation. Dr. Ryan was also one of the first professional staff members of Endless Youth and Life which provides products and services that make celebrities look and perform many years younger than their age.

On August 16, 2010 Dr. Ryan died in a tragic car accident. It was Dr. Ryan's wishes that Endless Youth and Life would make his advanced non-surgical product line available to the public in the future. Endless Youth and Life is now complying with Dr. Ryan's wishes.

The first product being offered to the public is Dr. Ryan's most popular non-surgical personal appearance enhancement product, Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer.

Abdominal fat is the most stubborn fat to reduce and it is also the most hazardous fat to health. Abdominal fat produces destructive hormones that spread throughout the body. A clinical study has shown that Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer can reduce your pot belly without changing your diet or physical activity.

A double blind clinical study was conducted on Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer. The study was commissioned by Advanced Supplement Research and used a research group which conducts clinical studies for the major drug companies.

The test subjects in the study lost significant weight and reduced their pot belly without changing their diet or physical activity. People who were not exercising or dieting lost weight and pot belly as well as those who were exercising and dieting.

The study also showed that Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer significantly increased calorie burning so that you lose weight faster or you can eat more food without gaining weight. And, the study found that the all natural Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer pill produced weight loss safely.

How does Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer work?

It was found in a number of research studies that a substance called Conjugated Linoleic Acid (CLA) decreases abdominal body fat in three ways: 1.) CLA decreases abdominal body fat mass by decreasing the amount of abdominal fat that is stored after eating; 2.) CLA increases the rate of fat breakdown in abdominal fat cells; and 3.) CLA increases the rate of abdominal fat metabolism which decreases the total number of fat cells. You can think of CLA as a match that lights the fuse in abdominal fat. This fuse also increases metabolic rate that can result in more fat loss. Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer contains the effective dose of CLA.

CLA interferes with an enzyme called lipoprotein lipase (LPL). LPL is an enzyme that helps store fat in the body.² So, by inhibiting this fat-storing enzyme LPL, CLA can help reduce the re-accumulation of fat.

CLA also helps the body use its existing abdominal fat for energy, thereby increasing fat oxidation and energy expenditure.

Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer also contains other super highly advanced all-natural ingredients that help reduce abdominal fat.

Studies have shown that Dr. Frank Ryan's Abdominal Fat Reducer ingredients increase the rate of fat metabolism, which reduces both surface and intestinal abdominal fat and helps inhibit future formation of these abdominal fats.^{3,4,5} One of these ingredients is a very high quality and

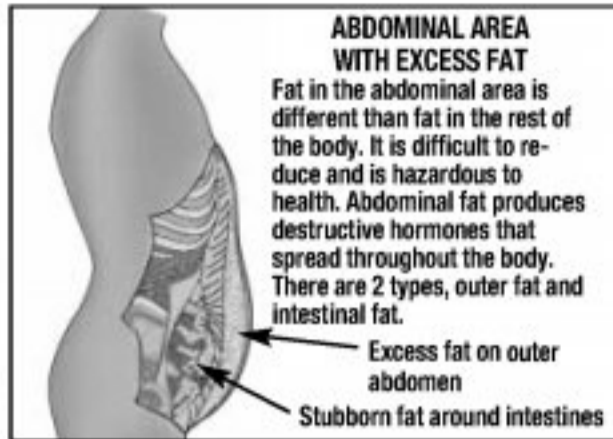

Dr. Frank Ryan, famous plastic surgeon to the Hollywood stars, was featured on television and in magazines across the nation on an extensive basis. Before he died in a tragic car accident on the Pacific Coast Highway near his ranch in Malibu, Dr. Ryan fulfilled his life-long dream of developing a line of products which would substantially improve personal appearance without plastic surgery. This product line, which includes an advanced abdominal fat reducer was previously only available to Dr. Ryan's clients. It has now been made available to the public.

potent extract of green tea. 'Stressful days' as debt talks drag on ► White House assures there will be a deal in time, but there's no sign of it ► Global markets watching closely ► Two parties are still deadlocked

White House officials and Republican leaders scrambled yesterday to reassure global markets the United States would avert a debt default, but the two sides gave no sign they were moving closer to a deal.

White House Chief of Staff Bill Daley warned that there would be a "few stressful days" ahead for financial markets, with the deadline to lift the $14.3 trillion U.S. borrowing limit — now only nine days away.

Daley, appearing on the CBS television program "Face the Nation," quickly added: "In the end, there's no question in my mind the government of America will not default."

But the path forward toward a deal was murky.

What's the big deal?

Rating agencies say they will cut America's Triple-A credit rating if the U.S. fails to meet debt payments, likely triggering global market turmoil. Even if a default is avoided, the credit rating will be under pressure if long-term deficit reduction is not addressed.

With Asian markets set to open in a few hours, Democrats and Republicans traded blame for the inability to strike an agreement. The two sides are deadlocked over Republicans demands for a short-term debt-limit increase that would force President Barack Obama to request further borrowing authority in early 2012. REUTERS

GOP 'nutters'

Right-wing "nutters" in the U.S. Congress holding up a deal are a greater risk to the global financial system than problems in the euro zone, a British minister said yesterday.

Business Secretary Vince Cable said "irresponsible" people who had been gleefully anticipating the collapse of the euro currency had been confounded after European leaders agreed to a second rescue package for debt-stricken Greece last week.

Norway mourns terror victims

Norway mourned yesterday 93 people killed in a shooting spree and car bombing by a Norwegian who saw his attacks as "atrocious, but necessary" to defeat liberal immigration policies and the spread of Islam.

In his first comment via a lawyer since his arrest, Anders Behring Breivik, 32, said he wanted to explain himself at a court hearing today about extending his custody.

In a rambling manifesto before the attacks, Breivik said he was part of a crusade to fight a tide of Islam.

"He has said that he believed the actions were atrocious, but that in his head they were necessary," Geir Lippestad said.

The lawyer said Breivik

"It is better to kill too many than not enough, or you risk reducing the desired ideological impact of the strike."

Scientists claim new vaccine against heroin

U.S. scientists claim in a report due out at the end of the month that they have developed a potential new weapon in the war on drugs: a heroin vaccine.

Researchers at California's Scripps Research Institute say that their vaccine, which has been tested on rats, produces antibodies that stop heroin from reaching the brain to release its euphoric effects.

With 25 years of experience with such vaccines, the study's lead author Kim Janda said the immunizing effect of this new drug is the best he's ever encountered.

"I haven't seen such a strong immune response as I have with what we term a dynamic anti-heroin vaccine," Janda said. "The hope is that such a protective vaccine will be an effective therapeutic option for those trying to break their addiction to heroin." ● METRO

In a blog posted last week, Panagiotis Ipeirotis, who teaches at NYU's Stern School of Business, said he would "never pursue cheating" by his students again, claiming his vigilance had been punished by a lower-than-average annual evaluation and salary increase.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip • @monicaatmetro • monica.weymouth@metro.us — Dorothy Robinson will return tomorrow.

Drinking up with the Kardashians

At the very real risk of giving them an idea for another reality show, we can all agree that — if not much else — the Kardashian girls throw an amazing bachelorette party.

Khloe and Kourtney were on hand in Vegas Saturday night for Kim's bash (she's set to marry Kris Humphries on Aug. 20), and judging by the many, many photos that have surfaced, all their hard work drinking in front of cameras over the past few years has paid off.

Looking alarmingly business-as-usual in a tiara and pink sash, Kim crashed the boys' party next door before returning to Tao for more suggestively shaped straws and mini male strippers. "My sisters are doing everything they can to embarrass me," she told the crowd.

Yes, well, that's kind of the point, Kim. Now, why they have to embarrass substitute gossip columnists with precious little to write about after a weekend when seemingly no one left the air conditioning, we have no idea.

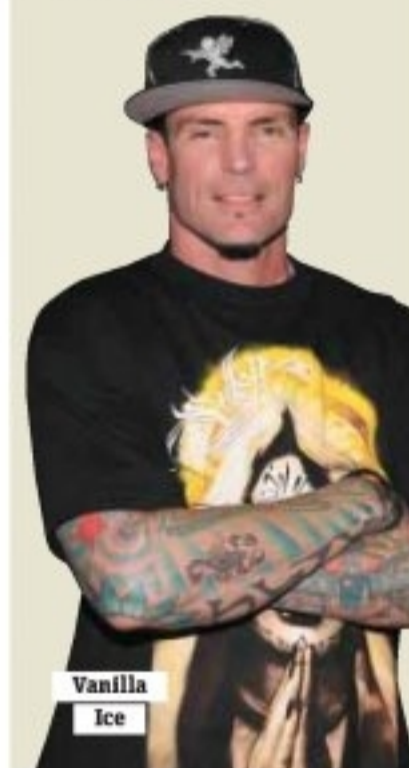

► It's what the Kardashians do best.

Who asked Vanilla Ice?

Vanilla Ice may have been trying to warn Justin Bieber about the perils of early fame, but it came out sounding pretty harsh:

"Something else new will come along and he'll be forgotten," he tells the Huffington Post. "It's going to be entertaining to watch."

He's probably right — but Justin is going to have a hard time topping Ice's "Behind the Music."

Vanilla Ice

Another 'Sunny' baby on the way

"It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia" stars Charlie Day and Mary Elizabeth Ellis are expecting a baby.

Day and Ellis

"We've got a kid due in December," Day tells People magazine. "We're five months along, and she's feeling great. We're excited."

First Sweet Dee and Mac, now Charlie and The Waitress? As weird as it is to remember that these people are, in reality, happily married professionals, we wish them luck! (And sincerely hope that it doesn't prohibit them from portraying our favorite glue-sniffing sociopaths on the clock.)

Talking points

Blake and Leo still on

Although there were rumors earlier this week-end that Leonardo DiCaprio and Blake Lively had split up, the pair are still very much together, sources tell Us Weekly. "They seemed very much in love," says a source who spotted them shopping for sunglasses in Santa Barbara, Calif. But the couple only got about 10 minutes of browsing in

"before a crowd of fans noticed them and they rushed out," the source adds.

Arnold's son recovering

Despite their ongoing divorce drama, Arnold Schwarzenegger and Maria

Shriver have come together after their younger son, Christopher, was involved in a harrowing surfing accident, according to TMZ. "A few days ago, our son Christopher suffered an accident at the beach," Schwarzenegger and Shriver say in a statement. "While it has been a very scary week, Christopher is surrounded by his family and friends. He is a brave boy and is expected to make a full recovery." Christopher reportedly incurred several broken bones and a collapsed lung and spent several days in the ICU.

Rhys Ifans arrested

Welsh actor Rhys Ifans was arrested for battery at San Diego Comic-Con after an altercation with a security guard, according to TMZ. Ifans, who was trying to re-enter the San Diego Convention Center for a panel promoting his upcoming "The Amazing Spider-Man," was stopped by a female security guard. The actor then became "abusive, belligerent and aggressive" and shoved the guard, who made a citizen's arrest and called the police.

AMY WINEHOUSE: 1983 – 2011

British soul singer Amy Winehouse died in her London apartment on Saturday of yet-unexplained causes, according to British police. The singer, whose battle with substance abuse was well documented, perhaps best by her own song, "Rehab," was 27 years old.

The news, like the sudden death of any young person, came as a shock — and not as a shock.

She had been working on staging a comeback, but recent concert performances had been lackluster, with the singer frequently appearing too intoxicated to complete the songs that she had written that earned her five Grammys in 2008.

Anyone who saw the YouTube footage of a June concert in Belgrade knew she was ill — she canceled her European tour directly after. Before Saturday, that clip was a funny train wreck. Now it looks like a cry for help.

Winehouse had only released two discs of music, her last and most famous, "Back to Black," in 2006. But although her quantity was minimal, the quality was so outstanding and revealing that it may have been all she could give. She lived her life like the lyrics she wrote: her misery, heartache and self-destructive urges all spoke to a pain that connected to listeners around the world. She told us she was trouble. But we never believed her when she said she was no good. Here we look at the highs and lows of her all-too-short life.

SAM CASTONE
and PAT HEALY

► Sept. 14, 1983

Amy Jade Winehouse is born in Southgate, London, to jazz-loving, Jewish parents.

► 1993

She forms the rap group Sweet 'n' Sour at age 10.

► 1993 through her teens

Winehouse goes to school, including the Sylvia Young Theatre School, which has an emphasis on performing arts. She claims she was expelled at 14, although Young disagrees and has called her "one of the greatest" despite being "disruptive in class."

► 1) 2002

Winehouse's boyfriend, singer Tyler James, sends in her demo tape. She signs with Simon Fuller, music producer and "American Idol" creator.

► 2) 2003

Her major label debut, "Frank," is a critical darling, nominated for the prestigious Mercury Prize, and it becomes a hit in the U.K. — though it never fully crosses over in America.

► 3) 2006

"Back to Black," her old-school R&B collaboration with music producer Mark Ronson, features hits "You Know I'm No Good" and "Rehab." This — along with her beehive hairdo — makes her an international megastar. Metro photographer Nathan Fried-Lipski captures her on the streets of Boston on the day of her show on this landmark tour.

► 4) 2008

With five awards, she wins the most Grammys ever by a female British act, nabbing awards for Best New Artist, Record of the Year and Song of the Year. She is seen here hugging her mother, Janis Winehouse, after receiving the Record of the Year award.

► 5) 2008 and on

It's all a blur. Despite cutting some tracks and scattered live appearances, Winehouse is more frequently seen stumbling out of nightclubs or off a stage. This photo is from her last show ever at Kalemegdan Park on June 18 in Belgrade, Serbia.

► 6) July 23, 2011

Winehouse is pronounced dead by British police. With an autopsy scheduled for today, the cause of death is currently unknown, although an overdose is suspected. Here, a fan lights vigil candles outside her home in London.

THEY CHEATED THEMSELVES

Amy Winehouse is the latest among a collective of musicians to die young, a group known as the Forever 27 Club.

Before he died, Kurt Cobain's mom pleaded with her famous son "not to join that stupid club." The club in question is the morose collective of famous musicians who died at the age of 27. As with its tragic newest member, Amy Winehouse, who died on Saturday, the departure of these singers often leaves a complicated legacy. At the time of their deaths, many had survived sudden rushes of fame and creativity and weathered it with difficulty, but seemed on the eve of pulling themselves together to do something great and different.

PAT HEALY
pat.healy@metro.us

Robert Johnson

(May 8, 1911-Aug. 16 1938)

Johnson is often cited not only as a founding father of the blues, but also as a founder of rock 'n' roll, influencing classic rock gods such as Jimmy Page and Eric Clapton. On a more morbid level, he also pretty much founded the Forever 27 Club. As he sang in "Hellhound on My Trail," while alive he had a premonition he wouldn't be for long. Cause of death: Poisoned Recorded for: Two years Posthumous output: The 1990 Columbia box set "The Complete Recordings" includes 41 tracks.

Jimi Hendrix

(Nov. 27, 1942-Sept. 18, 1970)

This left-handed guitarist was so prolific that in 1967 alone he released two landmark albums. He is credited with revolutionizing the way electric guitar is played; within the four albums he released while living, he showed so much innovation that we are only left to speculate how different music would be today had he not died at such a young age. Cause of death: Choking on his own vomit after mixing wine and sleeping pills Recorded for: Four years Posthumous output: Various unheard recordings have surfaced over the years, but most collections feature alternate takes of his popular songs.

Janis Joplin

(Jan. 19, 1943-Oct. 4, 1970)

Known for partying as much as her bluesy howl, Joplin came to fame singing for Big Brother and the Holding Company. Her final solo album, "Pearl," is stylistically more sophisticated, and is regarded by many to be her masterpiece. Cause of death: Overdose Recorded for: Four years Posthumous output: "Pearl" was released four months after her death.

Jim Morrison

(Dec. 8, 1943-July 3, 1971)

The Doors singer trafficked heavily in prophecies of his own death, from his lyrical imagery of breaking on through to the other side to his chants of "no one gets out of here alive!" on the song, "Five to One." Cause of death: Sources conflict over whether he suffered heart failure in his bathtub or died of a heroin overdose in a nightclub and was brought back to his Paris apartment and placed in the tub. Recorded for: Five years Posthumous output: A handful of Morrison's spoken word albums have emerged, most notably "An American Prayer" in 1978. At one point he says cryptically, "Did you have a good world when you died?"

Kurt Cobain

(Feb. 20, 1967-April 8, 1994)

The Nirvana singer's brash approach to music reinvigorated rock

'n' roll in the '90s. Like many in the Forever 27 Club, his image can still be seen on dorm room posters and T-shirts everywhere. He sang on his band's last album, "look on the bright side, suicide." Cause of death: Self-inflicted gunshot wound Recorded for: Five years Posthumous output: Nirvana's landmark "MTV Unplugged in New York" came out seven months after Cobain's death. Live discs and demos have materialized over the years.

Just don't call it a rom-com

► Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis would prefer to think of their new film as a comedy with incidental romance ► Despite similarities, stars say 'Friends with Benefits' isn't the same as 'No Strings Attached'

Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis want people talking about their new movie, "Friends with Benefits." Just don't call it a rom-com.

"We always thought of it more as comedy than a romantic comedy," says Kunis. "If anything, it was a buddy comedy with a little romance in it. Because you care about the characters and you watch the characters fall in love, but it's not your stereotypical romantic comedy."

Timberlake is on the same page about the film, about two love-weary friends who embark on a sexual relationship without all that messy romance stuff. "I don't know that we've ever treated it like a romantic comedy or a slacker comedy. To me, funny is funny and not funny is not funny," he says. "And so we just wanted to find the funny in all these situations, and that's how we treated this."

"Friends with Benefits" marks a major milestone for both Timberlake and Kunis, as it's the first time either has top-lined a film. The lead has to come with new pressures, but Timberlake insists they're quickly pushed aside. "We deal with those demons before we sign contracts. After you commit to the movie, you have to let all that stuff go,"

► OK, we're just going to say it: This here looks like a straight-up rom-com.

The great debate

Have we seen this before?

Though the premise of "Friends With Benefits" sounds similar to the plot of Natalie Portman and Ashton Kutcher's "No Strings Attached," Kunis says she doesn't care: "There's only so many original stories to be told in the world."

Timberlake insists the two films are different. "While I think that's a great movie, I don't think our movie is anything like it," he says. "But sometimes you're subject to the bulls—that [journalists] put us through." Yowch.

he says, though he admits having Kunis along for the ride was a huge help. "That was a little bit of a comfort, knowing that you were going to be sharing the whole movie with a counterpart," he adds. "There's never a moment in this movie where it's just one of us out there by ourselves."

Comic-Con: The good, the bad and the totally nerdy

► Looking back at this year's event in San Diego, where comic-book heroes and Hollywood stars collided

For the Twihards

"Twilight" stars Kristen Stewart, Robert Pattinson and Taylor Lautner, as well as director Bill Condon, were in attendance to tease the fourth of the series's five movies, "Breaking Dawn - Part 1," to fans who had been camped out for days.

► Pattinson, left, and Lautner

"I was praying that nobody booed at the clip," the Oscar-winning director said afterward. "We haven't had any test screening. So to show scenes, six to seven minutes of the movie — my heart was beating, definitely."

The movies

The biggest comic-book film hitting Comic-Con this year, "The Amazing Spider-Man," had some highs and lows during its Friday session. On the plus side, series star Andrew Garfield endeared himself to fans with an earnest speech about how Spider-Man saved his life. "In every comic I read, he was living out my — and every skinny boy's — fantasy of being stronger, of being free of the body I was born into," said Garfield, who entered the panel posing as an audience member dressed in a cheap Spider-Man costume. On the minus side, Garfield's on-screen nemesis, Rhys Ifans, was arrested for battery after getting into an argument with a security guard.

Some other big names struck out with their appearances: Steven Spielberg and Peter Jackson showed off more of their upcoming

"The Adventures of Tintin," but as dazzling as the computer animation looked, talk mostly centered on how the face of their hero just wasn't right.

The TV series

The biggest winner in the TV world was clearly HBO's epic "Game of Thrones," making its inaugural appearance at Comic-Con. Much like with last year's "The Walking Dead," organizers didn't anticipate exactly how popular the panel would be, with an estimated 7,000 people turning up for the 4,500-capacity space.

Panels for "True Blood" and Sarah Michelle Gellar's new series, "Ringer," also drew big crowds.

How to handle horrible bosses in the real world

- The new film offers a solution, but it isn't exactly good for your career
- How to cope without going to jail

In "Horrible Bosses," Jason Bateman, Charlie Day and Jason Sudeikis come up with a very simple plan for dealing with their torturous managers: namely, kill them. (If it sounds outrageous, know that this twisted world also contains a sex-crazed Jennifer Aniston whose advances are not appreciated.)

In the real world, there are plenty of HR-approved methods of handling all types of horrible bosses. We checked in with Robert Sutton, author of "Good Boss, Bad Boss" and "The No A—hole Rule."

Start a conversation

It's possible — likely, even — that your boss has no idea he's an insufferable micromanager. "It turns out that the more incompetent people are at things, the more they're unaware of their weaknesses," says Sutton. "It's good to start with the assumption that he's not aware of how he's coming across. Ask yourself if you can have a conversation to talk about the problems. But it depends on the nature of the horribleness."

Detach

In the process of improving your long-term situation, form day-to-day strategies. "Learn the fine art of emotional detachment," says Sutton. "Passion and commitment is fabulous, but if you want to get home in one piece, sometimes going through the motions is the most effective way."

Form a team

"If you're going to fight back against a bully boss, form a posse. You're in a better position to get results or at least not get

► The really scary thing is, he probably considers this acceptable behavior.

Quit — if you can

If you have the luxury of leaving your job, Sutton recommends removing yourself from the situation.

"The first thing is to get out if you possibly can," he says. "A lot of times, you can move to another part of the agency. Transferring, and doing it gracefully, can sometimes be part of the process."

hurt," advises Sutton.

When you do involve HR, make sure you have evidence. "You should document, document, document every bad thing your boss does. Keep track of your boss's ethically questionable behavior. The lesson here is, when you're an a—hole, people lie in wait, and then they jump on you."

► Nella Pasta owners Leigh Foster and Rachel Marshall were "Start Small, Go Big" winners last year.

A sweet offer from DailyCandy

As anyone who has started a business will tell you, there's a lot separating a great idea from a certified success story. And while some of it you have to learn the hard way, wouldn't it be nice to have an entrepreneur fairy godmother? That's the thinking behind DailyCandy's "Start Small, Go Big" contest, which pairs budding small businesses with industry mogul mentors.

In addition to promotion through DailyCandy's website and popular lifestyle newsletters, four winners from the categories of fashion, food, home and beauty will earn a seat at the "DailyCandy Academy," where big-name pros — last year included Isaac Mizrahi, Rebecca Minkoff and Marcus Samuelsson — will offer PR, marketing, finance and technology advice.

Last year's alums seem to have benefited: Nella Pasta will soon be available in regional Whole Foods stores, while Dolly Pearl founder Vi Hoang has been able to hire a staff and has her dresses in more boutiques. "It was such a cool thing to see these bigwigs talk to the winners," says DailyCandy editor Lauren Lumsden. "They really offered real-world advice. It wasn't just like, 'Don't give up! Stay inspired.' It was really tangible advice: how to borrow money, how to handle debt." Hey, they never said it was fun.

When to turn down a promotion

► Think before you step up: Sometimes, it's better to lay low on the ladder.

- It's supposed to be a positive career move
- But some new titles come with responsibilities you don't want and tasks you're not suited for

Not every step up is a step in the right direction. Accept a bogus promotion, and you could find yourself trapped in a job less fulfilling than the entry-level gig you rode in on.

"A lot of people are getting promoted in this economy because companies are trying to do more with less," executive coach Cynthia Shapiro says. "Instead of bringing somebody in, they're having employees do three or four jobs by promoting them and then expecting them to still do their old work. It's kind of a recipe for disaster."

But it's not a recipe you need to swallow.

"You never have to take something that's being offered to you," executive coach Meredith Haberfeld says. "You need to get clear

Quoted

"Make sure expanded leadership and accountability is something you are interested in. That said, don't be short-sighted."

MEREDITH HABERFELD

about what you want out of your career long-term, then you need to make strategic moves toward that," she adds.

If you do accept and discover the new role isn't what you hoped it would be, it's unlikely you can gracefully demote yourself. "It's often easier to get a promotion than it is to move back if you don't like it," Shapiro warns. "Companies like to see forward motion. You tell the company you want to go back down, they won't allow it. You try to go to another company and get the position you had before — but you've got this loftier title. They're going to imagine something is wrong."

So what's an employee to do when they're tempted with a fancy new business card? Take a step back.

"These things sometimes aren't as good as they look," says Shapiro, who recommends hiring a consultant to help evaluate the move. "Look at it objectively, and make sure the position is set up for success."

How to make the most of your college dorm

► Bright accent colors can liven up an otherwise generic space.

► As August approaches, retailers like Ikea, Target and even Home Depot are launching their annual lines for dorm rooms ► But a quick review of small-space design basics can add a measure of focus amid the seemingly endless throw-pillow options ► Three expert decorating tips for a savvy student space

Think up

Wall art can either add or subtract from that oppressive, cramped feeling of a tiny living space. Hang the art a little higher than you might normally, and go for a few big and splashy pieces to grab focus. Remember: Details really come to life in a small space. "Go big! Large frames are going to create more impact and break up the wall space," says Jessica Geller, founder of ID810 Design Group.

Embrace color

Consider a solid, bright color to unify a few accessories. In a small space, simple and bold can go a long way. "Bright accent colors are a great way to energize a small space," says Kelly Edwards, an interior designer featured in eBay's new "back to school" center. "I suggest using a subtle pattern for your duvet cover and then livening it up with graphic throw pillows."

Walls aren't just for posters

Take notice of the stuff that usually winds up cluttering the floor and furniture. Try to get those jackets, shoes, bags and books on to hooks and shelves, and invest in a coat rack.

"Adding space at the perimeter, rather than the center, will help the room feel bigger," says Christopher Lowell, author of "You Can Do It! Small Spaces."

"Shelves can help you display. Think about using things you wouldn't normally think to display: Make-up and jewelry can actually create a nice bit of impact," adds Geller.

Look up "ineptness" in the dictionary and you'll see a photo of President Obama, Speaker of the House John Boehner and both houses of Congress next to each word. To get things done, we need the likeness of the greatest arm-twister of them all, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

HERB STARK, MASSAPEQUA

The Republicans/Tea Party cannot lead the republic to prosperity, and since they lack effective leadership they would rather destroy our nation. Their hatred for Obama is so intense they've decided reduce America to chaos.

ANTHONY P. JOHNSON, VIA E-MAIL

Well, we've seen enough; we're convinced. These Tea Party people and the Republicans have no intention of creating jobs. They're doing everything else in the world but creating jobs. Now we know who to target in the next election. The Tea Party is over!

M.E. GOODWIN, VIA E-MAIL

The Republicans are fighting very hard to keep their wealthy constituents from paying additional taxes. Whereas the middle and poor classes — whose Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid benefits are in jeopardy — have overwhelmingly borne the loss of sons and daughters who made the ultimate sacrifice to protect this nation's foreign interests and to ensure its freedom.

GLENN HAYES, KEW GARDENS

Stop the Fed to U.S. government loan scam once and for all; print the money and shut up! If Congress doesn't want the budget funded, they shouldn't have passed the budget. Why do people think only the money from the banks works? Because they have been trained to be slaves of banks. CHARLES MICHAEL COUCH, BED-STUY

Big companies make billions, pay no taxes and receive billions in refunds. The American people are suffering because they trusted our elected officials. MARIA BULAT, VIA E-MAIL

Some protest
is welcome

It is no surprise that the Westboro Baptist Church will be protesting gay weddings on the first day of marriage equality in New York. Frankly, same-sex marriage is the kind of activity that should rile up small-minded, sanctimonious and bigoted people. That is how we know that justice has prevailed.

DAVID TERHUNE, BROOKLYN

Horoscope

♈ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Be alert for an out-of-the-ordinary development that could have a fortunate effect. Something you thought nominal is likely to become significant.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Aided and abetted by a significant amount of good judgment and a lot of luck, if you play your cards right, this could turn out to be a red-letter day for you career-wise. Be on your toes.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Don't be so locked in on something you're trying to accomplish that you leave no room for change. A bit of alteration could be your best option.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. When it comes to your one-on-one dealings, it's to your advantage to be as open-minded and generous as you can when negotiating with another, if you hope to make any headway.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. The bigger an issue gets, the better you are likely to handle it. This is apt to be especially true when it comes to negotiations that affect your career.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. This could be one of your better days to take a calculated risk that you've been considering. Conditions seem to favor you regarding the very situation you're trying to go after.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Although you are likely to experience a number of disruptions in your normal routine, they are likely to be the kind of distractions you'll welcome.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Certain exciting developments are stirring concerning some kind of arrangement you have with another. They'll be exactly the type of shifts you've been hoping would occur.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Larger-than-usual gains can be made from work or services you perform for another. Make the most of it, because you might not get the same opportunity tomorrow.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Propitious conditions will enable you to expand upon something good you already have going. However, it will be up to you to recognize what it is and act on the opportunity.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. It looks like you've been needlessly worrying about the outcome of an event. All those anxieties you've been harboring should be put to rest as soon as you recognize this.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Keep your lines of communication open to good friends, because you could be lucky with them. Even if you have to move around a lot, find a way to stay in touch. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

► For the 15th straight season Mariano Rivera saves his 25th game ► He extends his own record ► Teammates marvel at durability, consistency

For 15 years, Mariano Rivera has been the closer for the Yankees. And, for 15 years, Rivera has saved at least 25 games.

Those numbers may not be as impressive as if — or when — he passes Trevor Hoffman for first all-time, but it speaks to unrivaled consistency.

"It's just how consistent he is, his longevity," manager Joe Girardi marveled. "To think of anyone being a closer for 15 years is somewhat mind-boggling. You just don't see it happen very often and to be real effective for 15 years is another story."

Perhaps more impressive is that Rivera reached it on a day when he loaded the bases during the ninth inning of yesterday's 7-5 victory over the Athletics.

Rivera was modest in his thoughts on the mark.

"You look at the guy and he's unbelievable. That's really an impressive streak up there. The guy is good. He just gets the job done."

DAVID ROBERTSON, WHO WAS 12 YEARS OLD WHEN RIVERA'S STREAK BEGAN

He paused before contemplating the best way for him to express himself.

"Twenty-five, it's good," Rivera said. "I just want to win games. I don't pay attention to stuff like that, but it's good."

If Rivera was modest in his reaction to becoming the first and likely only man to reach 25 saves in 15 straight seasons, some of his teammates weren't, especially David Robert-

Rivera Top 4

Most of Rivera's seasons have been spectacular, but we look at his top 4 regular seasons:

1 1996
Rivera was John Wetteland's setup man, throwing 107.2 innings with a 2.09 ERA. He finished third in Cy Young voting. He only finished higher one other time.

2 2004
Set his single-season record for saves (53), but only a 1.94 ERA.

3 2005
The closest he ever got to a Cy Young (finished second), and also his lowest ever ERA (1.38).

4 2008
His definitive best year ever. His ERA was 1.40, with an absurd 0.66 WHIP, with 77 strikeouts and six walks in 70.2 innings.

Good day, bad day

Good day

OK, so his Mets tenure didn't go so well, but Roberto Alomar still should have been a first ballot Hall of Famer.

His time came yesterday when the second baseman was inducted into Cooperstown. He was joined by Twins pitcher Bert Blyleven.

Bad day

The Seattle Mariners ran their streak to 15 straight losses yesterday.

They lost 12-8 to Boston, which had 17 hits in the game.

Fifteen set the franchise record for most consecutive losses and is the longest in MLB since the Royals lost 19 straight in 2005.

Can anyone save the PGA Tour?

There will never be another Tiger Woods.

With all apologies to recent Darren Clarke and Rory McIlroy, that's the way it is. Just ask 15-year PGA Tour veteran Stewart Cink.

"Guys like Tiger Woods come around, well, once," Cink told Metro. "I saw [Jack] Nicklaus. I saw [Nick] Faldo. Nothing comes close to the way Tiger Woods played at his peak. To be honest, he's probably the most electrifying player to ever play the game."

Woods hasn't played a competitive round since May, and many doubt he'll ever regain his form. In Woods' absence, the game has grown boring. There have been only four repeat winners in 2011, and none of those included a major.

So, what is wrong with golf these days?

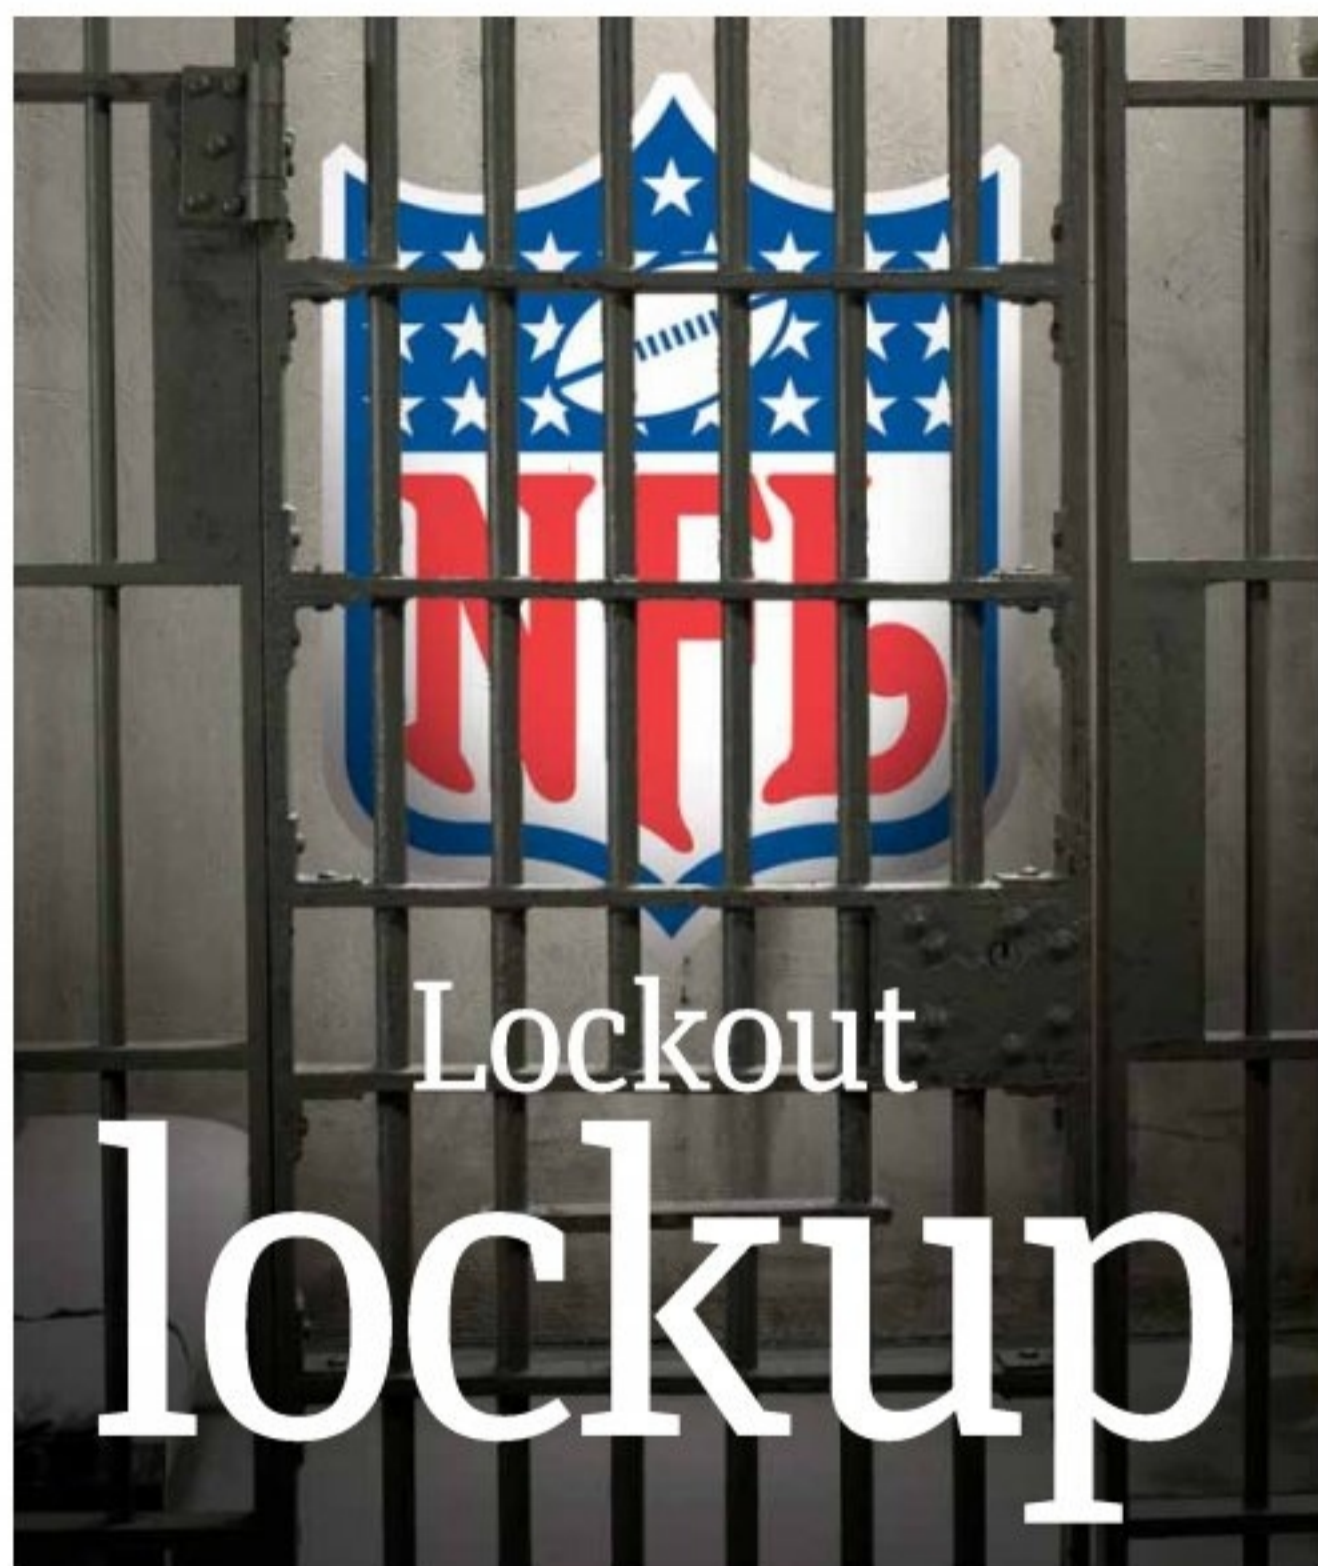

"Tiger is definitely a huge piece of the puzzle," Cink said. "It doesn't matter if Rory McIlroy or Phil Mickelson turn it up a notch. The game probably needs him because it's exciting when Tiger Woods is playing great."

American golf has also come to a screeching halt recently. The last three major winners have all been foreigners.

MIKE GREGER

► Cink doesn't believe another Tiger Woods will ever come.

Lockout lockup

- ▶ End of lockout brings relief to fans, but also teams
- ▶ Structure of season will keep players out of trouble

Players are not just being locked out from the chance to play football, but are also being locked up at an alarming rate.

The arrest of Cincinnati Bengals running back Cedric Benson last weekend is just the latest in an offseason that could become known as "Players Gone Wild."

Since the end of the Super Bowl, the first two months after the season saw a significant jump in player arrests with 13 players locked up during that eight-week span, compared to seven arrests during the same stretch last year. A big part of the incarceration problem is that without the structure of the NFL offseason, many players are without a regimen that keeps their days ordered and with purpose.

In a typical NFL offseason, players will have roughly a month off after the Super Bowl to recuperate before they then begin offseason workout programs at the team facilities.

Whole teams will convene, usually in late May, for organized team activities, which garner nearly 100 percent participation. Several weeks of OTAs, typically held twice weekly, feed into minicamp in mid-June. Minicamp, which lasts for three days, is the last time the team is together until training camp in late July.

The structure and accountability in a typical offseason is a grind for most players, but in a year with a labor impasse, players who left their teams at the end of the season have been on their own for nearly 16 weeks, with only their agents to influence them.

"Players don't have the schedule that they would normally," Jets tight end

Dustin Keller told Metro. "If you decide to stay out late and you miss your morning workout, you can just call your trainer and reschedule for 2 p.m. and there's no consequences. If there isn't a lockout, you can't do that with the team."

The recent string of arrests includes the squeaky clean Hines Ward,

"I'm not the kind of guy who gets in trouble personally. Going out at night hasn't gotten me here — but workouts and taking care of myself and being smart with my body and time has," linebacker Bart Scott said. "[Head coach] Rex Ryan and [general manager Mike] Tannenbaum did a good job bringing in high character guys here who don't need to be told that they need to make smart choices."

Arizona Cardinals safety Kerry Rhodes said the coaching staff spoke with the team after they cleared out their lockers at the end of the season.

"I am in bed around 9 o'clock most nights," Rhodes said.

"My wife gives me a curfew — I'm allowed out two nights a week," Scott said with a straight face. "She doesn't want me just running around out there."

NFL lockout

Players vote on CBA today

NFL. The NFL lockout should officially end today, if you believe the varying reports.

ESPN is reporting that both sides — the owners and the NFLPA — have come to an agreement on the collective bargaining agreement.

All that remains is a vote from the players' executive committee and player representatives from all 32 teams.

That vote is considered a formality as the NFLPA would not hold it if it thought it would not pass.

After passing today, players could begin reporting to camps and vote to re-certify as a union by Wednesday. That would allow teams to begin negotiating with their own unrestricted free agents.

Free agency would then begin on Saturday, when all players — and 2011 draft picks — would be eligible to sign.

The free agency period will likely be chaotic as teams will have just a couple days to make all of their signings, with camps opening immediately and then preseason games getting under way the second week in August. METRO

Sports in brief

Evans wins Tour de France

CYCLING. Australian Cadel Evans won the Tour de France yesterday for the first time.

He took over the lead Saturday in the individual time trial, besting Andy Schleck.

Evans had previously been runner-up twice in the event.

Judah drops title to Khan

BOXING. Brooklyn native Zab Judah was knocked out in the fifth round of Saturday's 140-lb unification bout.

Amir Khan improved to 26-1 with the victory. The win for Khan was not without controversy. Khan landed a punch at the waistline that Judah claimed was low. METRO

Santana 'feels good' in rehab

► Mets ace could make minor league start as soon as this week

One by one, the All Stars are returning.

The next guy on the list — after the return of Jose Reyes and David Wright — is Johan Santana.

The two-time Cy Young Award winner threw a 45-pitch bullpen session before yesterday's game and said he "feels good."

He proclaimed himself ready to begin a minor league rehab schedule as long as he woke up today with no pain in his surgically repaired left shoulder.

The Mets' No. 1 starter has missed the entire season after undergoing a procedure to repair a torn anterior capsule in his throwing arm last September.

Santana began throwing on flat ground a couple months ago and moved to the bullpen mound two weeks ago.

There's still no timetable for when he could return to the big club. METRO

► Santana threw 45 pitches with manager Terry Collins, background, looking on.
